SPECTRUM ART GALLERY fine art photography

A place for education, appreciation and the working artist

Forty years ago exhibitions of photography as an art form appeared very infrequently, especially in the San Joaquin Valley. It was at this time a growing number of photographic artists began to meet in a rented gallery and darkroom by the name of Photo-Synthesis. By 1979, this group of local photographers had formed a not-for-profit cooperative to create a local forum for the fine art of photography. In 1980, the group rented a space in the Fresno Tower District. With respect to the broad variety of work produced by its members, it became known as "Spectrum Art Gallery."
